Intro

“Hello and welcome to the first episode of the Bristol City vs Stoke Matchday experience. I will be making two episodes from this game, one is more based on the game and the other will be a behind the scenes vlog to show the preparation that goes into each matchday. I hope you enjoy it!”

Kit set up

“For this game I will be using a Canon 7D with a 75-300mm lens as the 7D is the best quality camera I can get my hands on and it records for around 13 minutes before stopping. The reason I used a 75-300mm lens over a bigger 70-200mm lens is because the 75-300mm is smaller and it is easier to use manual focus and of course it can zoom in further. The only major difference between the two lenses is that the 70-200mm has a bigger aperture, so a wide shot would fit in more of the pitch than a wide shot from the 75-300mm. The tripod I am using is great for this kind of filming as it has a handle for panning so I can have one hand on that and the other on the lens. I have also got a mic for the top of the camera which is literally just for recording audio. Finally, I have the GoPro which I will use to record most of the footage for both vlogs. So that's about it, let's make our way pitchside!”

Write captions during the game to say what events have happened

Outro

“Alright so that's the game, we won 1-0 and actually managed to hold on so the curse might be broken and hopefully we can take this home win as a sign of more to come. That's all from me, I hope you enjoyed my first vlog and make sure to leave a comment on what you liked and what I could've done better!”

“Thanks for watching and see you next time!”
